

Business Planning & Transactions

With a wealth of experience in the legal industry, JPR Law is in a unique position to advise small business owners, real estate investors, and new entrepreneurs on the proper business entity choice to accomplish their tax and liability protection goals. Once a type of entity is chosen, JPR drafts the important governing documents, files the necessary documents with the proper state agencies, and drafts any future transactional documents or amendments needed.

We can take care of complicated business transaction procedures, including:

- Entity Formation
- Limited Liability Partnership
- S-Corporations
- Limited Liability Companies (LLCs)
- Family Limited Partnerships
- Annual Filings

Proper business planning and estate planning often go hand in hand. We advise business owners on succession planning issues that may play a key role in accomplishing their overarching estate planning goals. We also form and advise entities, like family limited partnerships, to help small businesses transition to the next generation smoothly, successfully, and with the most beneficial tax treatment as possible.
